The Last Remnant Sale of '98

WE'VE skipped remnant day several times during the past month, had to. All our time was devoted to the filling of holiday wants and coping with the Christmas crowds. And all that while the energy of a surprising great remnant sale was being stored up. Short lots were accumulating. And short lengths were gathering in quantities in every part of the store. This week we've been weeding them out and marking them down. There's not a department but what has the best of leaders to offer you. And now to add to the intensity of tomorrow's business along comes the first lot of Spring remnants—months before any other store in the land will be in a position to buy them much less offer them to you. They've come down straight from the hills of New England. Direct from the biggest mills. Crisp and spick cottons, the newest prints, daintiest of wash goods. They'll go on sale tomorrow for the first time.

But the quantity is too great. So much so that we'll take half and even as low as one-third of full-length prices.

AFTER THE SCALP OF CLAUDE M. JOHNSON

Trades Unionists Want Him Removed From Office.

GROUND OF COMPLAINT

Labor Men Concentrating All Their Influence.

Chief of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing Alleged to Be Unfriendly to Organized Labor.

The trades unionists of the country are on the track of Claude M. Johnson, chief of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and will concentrate all their influence to cause his removal from the position he occupies.

On December 19 last the Central Labor Union, a local trades unionist organization and the American Federation of Labor, in annual meeting in Kansas City, Mo., passed resolution denouncing the methods of Mr. Johnson and appealing to the Government for his removal as a matter of public policy. One of the great objections to Mr. Johnson's conduct of the affairs of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, is that he has introduced steam plate printing machines into that department of the Government. The work done by these machines, it is alleged by the trades unionists, is inferior to that done by skilled laborers and to a great extent endangers the safety of the Government's money securities, which the machine work, they assert, makes it comparatively easy to counterfeit.

It is also maintained by the laboring men that Mr. Johnson has always been and still is unfriendly to organized labor.

The American Federation of Labor by resolution, authorized its executive council to petition for the removal of Mr. Johnson.

WORK FOR THE NATIONAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN

WILL CONSIDER DIVORCE LAWS Effort to Be Made to Secure General Legislation on the Subject of Marriage.

Mrs. May Wright Sewall, of Indianapolis, president of the National Council of Women, is in Washington making arrangements for the third triennial meeting of the Council, to be held in February. The session will last a fortnight.

Mrs. Sewall said: "The work of the Council is well mapped out for its standing committees, and we have just added two new committees, on 'Domestic Relations Under the Law' and 'On the Care of Dependent and Infirm Children.' On the former every woman is a star in the legal profession. These women will codify all existing State laws relating to marriage, divorce and child support, and generally, and bringing to the surface their inconsistencies, try through the National Council to have some general and adequate legislation on the subject. This Congress will be most important because it will precede that of the quinquennial international Council to be held in London in June, 1900, when the National Council of Women in Great Britain, the United States, Germany, Canada, Sweden, Italy, Greece and Holland will be represented, and National Councils are being formed in France, Finland, Denmark and Switzerland."

CITY BRIEVITIES.

An adjourned meeting of the Legion of Local Women will be held tonight at 8 p. m., for the transaction of important business.

Mr. J. E. Willard has conveyed a piece of property 20 feet by 11 inches front on F Street, with a depth of 150 feet, to Caleb Willard, for $60,000. The latter, however, declined to sell, although the lot was too small for building purposes, and Caleb Willard owned the property on F Street, and the piece of the highest ever paid for F Street property.

Two Pointed Questions Answered.
What is the use of making a better article for your competitor if you cannot get a better price for it?

Ans.—As there is no difference in the price, the public will buy only the better, so that while our goods are smaller a single one will sell for more than a dozen of the aggregate.

How can you get the public to know your make is the best?

If both articles are brought prominently before the public, both will be known, and the public will very quickly pass judgment on them and use only the better one.

THINGS THEATRICAL.
Both the German and French schools will be represented in the opera to be sung here next week by the Ellis Grand Opera Company. The organization is to give four performances at the Lafayette Square, offering Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet" on Tuesday, Wagner's "Tannhauser" on Thursday, Macagn's "Cavalleria Rusticana" and Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" on Friday, and "The Barber of Seville" at the Saturday matinee. In the organization are Madame Melba, Frau Johanna Gadski, Zeile De Lussan, Rosa Olitzka, Marie Matfield, M. Bonnard, Franco Pandolfi, Andreas Dippel, Ellison Van Hoon, Max Story, Chevalier De Vries and many others. The singers will be accompanied by the New York Symphony Orchestra, which is under the direction of Seppilli and Walter Damrosch.

William H. Crane and what is reputed to be an excellent company will be seen here next week at the National Theater in Clyde Fitch and Leo Dietrichstein's new play, "The Head of the Family." This piece was done in Gotham just prior to the star's leaving and is supposed to have made something of a hit. The critics there compared it favorably with both "The Senator" and "A Fool of Fortune." Mr. Crane has always been very popular in Washington and signs that he will do a big business during his coming engagement.

Harry B. Smith, whose rapidity of production is only second to that of an incubator, and Ludwig Engländer, who has been responsible for "Half a King," have collaborated this year in furnishing Francis Wilson with a new vehicle, "The Little Corporal," which he brings to this Grand Opera house next week. The libretto is said to have contributed to this work many number of bright lines and amusing situations, while those who saw "The Corporal" during its long run at the Broadway Theater proclaim the lyrics to be alliterative, flowing and worthy of retention. Mr. Engländer's melodies are also said to be excellent. The production has been carefully made, the company well chosen and the entire entertainment should prove most enjoyable. Seats for the local engagement are now on sale at Guzman's.

Washington theatergoers will have another opportunity to laugh heartily when the Rogers Brothers, whose successful appearance as stars in John J. McNally's comedy, "A Reign of Error," is now well known, will play a return engagement at the Columbia Theater. The Rogers Brothers have fairly proven their right to popularity, and their drolics as the Dutch characters will linger long in the memory of all who have seen their farce. Mr. McNally has succeeded in fitting their personality as the costumer has mislaid their bodies. The duel in which the stars engage in the last act is said to be side-splitting in its drolics and the jokes, the songs, the dances and the parodies which they introduce are among the funniest ever presented to an audience. No fault could possibly be found with the long list of favorites with which Kiaw & Engländer have surrounded their heroes—George, Calne, Maude Raymond, Ada Lewis, La Petite Adelaide, Edith St. Clair, George F. Marion, John Farr, Budd Ross and others. Seats for the offering are now selling.

Gilmore and Leonard are to be seen here next week at the Academy of Music in their new play, "Hogan's Alley." This clever conceit was done here at the Bijou Theater and broke all records for big business at that house. In this, its third season, the piece and the presenting company are said to be better than ever, and the local engagement would prove a good one. Seats are now on sale.

Mildred Howard De Gray, the barefooted dancer, whose advent at the Manhattan Theater, New York, created so great a sensation last year when E. E. Rice produced "Monte Carlo," will be seen next week at Kernan's with Sam Devere's "Own Show." She will then present her latest effort in terpsichorean evolution. Sam Devere himself will plunge on the grand old and the Biograph will project several interesting pictures on a screen provided. The entertainment will probably be a pleasing one and should attract accordingly.

The bookings for next week are being completed at the Bijou Theater and things look bright there for the lover of entertaining variety shows. A number of the best people on the vaudeville stage are said to have been secured as an attraction. The Viagraph will also be heard over another week and the house stock-company is to be seen in a new musical melange.

Business remains good with all the temporary amusement enterprises here. "Trilby" is drawing excellent houses at 1290 Pennsylvania Avenue, the Wargrave comedy, "The Wargrave Comedy," at Metropolitan Hall and the Mutoscope Parlor, 1211 Pennsylvania Avenue, are always filled. There is no prospect of any of these forms of entertainment being removed for some time yet.

People who drink Heurich's beer may be confident that they are a pure malt and hop beverage, well aged and wholesome. "Phone 634, Arlington Bottling Co., for a case of Marston, Sells, Extra Pale, or Lager.
